Great idea to free yourself from the production of content but we have a major issue with the copy rights of the articles, you need to work on this. Interesting to be facing real life materials from the web. The drawback is that it is very limited to learning vocabulary (no grammar, syntax....). It would be interesting if you could submit your own articles that you have selected yourself too. In your freemium business model what can of functions will have to be paid? We would like to know more about your marketing plan and sales skills with the team.

Very promising product. Backend algorithm impressive, now it needs a UX to match.
