Is 'Rate your speech' the brand name yet or not anymore? The idea of 'rating' remains, but not only on communication skills, right? Also, are you going to foster peer review based learning method in parallel to the platform? If that is one pivotal point of your competitive advantage, it may happen that you need to or at least consider it in your client acquisition strategy, not only from the user acquisition perspective: the product is scalable but do trainers need to get used to it? It would be good to look for other trainers, maybe in other countries for the piloting. Only one experience may be a too short experience. Also, 100.000€ may not sound realistic for technology and users+ US. The team sounds, both from backgrounds perspective as for dedication.
